Bell was released on $300 bail. It seems that those whom Bell said furnished him information in regard to Rickenbach violating the Seitz law now deny it.

CRIME AND CALAMITY.

NORRISTOWN, PENN., Nov. 20.—Information is just received here of a fatal affray near James' wn, Pentress County. A young man named Steinfelcher was employed by Miss Josephine Williams, and London Downs and Giles Anderson came to the house with rifles, threatening to kill Steinfelcher if he did not leave, and insulting Miss Williams. One of them put down his gun, when Steinfelcher snatched it up and shot Downs, killing him instantly. He then clubbed his gun and beat Anderson nearly to death. Steinfelcher was arrested, but no one appeared against him, and he was released.

A BARBER'S LITTLE POP.

DEVER, COLO., Nov. 19.—A Tribune Leadville special says that last night a barber of that city was going home, when he was accosted by two men with the order to hold up his hands. He obeyed promptly, but held up a pistol also, which he discharged twice at the assailants. The latter ran some distance, and then turned and fired at the barber without effect. Some time afterward one of the men was found dead on the porch of an adjacent house, and the other was arrested and found to have a bullet-hole through his arm.

A Troubled Railroad Pool.

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—A prediction is today published that the Iowa railroad pool will soon go to pieces. Since the Wabash Road, through St. L., K., & N., has gained a connection with the Union Pacific at Omaha, it demands a quarter of the east-bound business from that point.

As there are five competing lines this claim is considered unjust. Now another step towards a disruption of the pool has been taken by the Northwestern, which yesterday published new tariff bidding for Missouri River business via Kansas City, St. Joe & Council Bluffs Road. Rates belonging to the Southwestern pool consider the Northwestern not entitled to Missouri River business, and open hostilities have begun.

A PRIEST ACQUITTED.

End of An Exciting Affair in Indiana.

Special to the Star.

BATESVILLE, IND., Nov. 20.—The trial of Father Dammehoff, the priest at Morris, a town about three miles from here, charged with brutally whipping three of his school children for attending a Protestant funeral and being plaid-bearers at the same, took place here yesterday before Esquire Charles Johnson, the trial resulted in the acquittal of the priest.

The evidence brought out the following facts: The rule of the Catholic school is, as sworn to by the Bishop, that no scholar shall be permitted to leave or be absent from school without the consent of the priest. The children left the school and attended the funeral without the priest's consent, and on their return they failed to bring an excuse for their absence. They were then sent home for an excuse, but in stead of returning with the same, they remained away from school until next morning.

When they returned to school they were asked for their excuse, but told the teacher they had none. The teacher then sent them to the priest, who whipped them with a very small birch stick, that would have been impossible for him to injure them with, he giving each one six licks. They then went home to their parents and laid in complaints, and the priest was arrested. The trial occupied the whole day, with the result as stated.

LONG LICK LOVERS.

How One of Them Flickered at the Wedding Feast.

Special to the Star.

HARDINSBURG, KY., Nov. 20.—The whole neighborhood of Long Lick, an aristocratic portion of this county, is just now agog over a slip-up in a wedding. The contracting parties were Mr. Charles Hardaway, a well-to-do young man of Bewleyville, and Miss Flora Dean, daughter of Henry Dean, of Long Lick. Everything was arranged for a big wedding.

The day was named; the news spread; a big feast was spread, and the fatted calf was killed; but, when the hour arrived, the bridegroom came not. On the evening previous to the day named he sent Miss Flora a note, saying that he would not be there, and giving as his excuse that he did not love her. This was indeed a disclaimer, and too late, however, to avoid a big preparation for an event which in all likelihood promised to be something elegant. Miss Flora is one among the first ladies of Long Lick; beautiful and intelligent.

GREAT GALES.

National Associated Press to the Star.

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—The schooner Clara Parker sailed yesterday from Chicago for Ecenaba to load iron ore, recklessly in the face of danger signals. She got out twenty miles, encountered a gale and put back. As night came on she endeavored to anchor, but the chains of both the light and heavy anchor parted. The schooner then attempted to make the harbor and five of her crew clambered from the jibboom to the breakwater and were rescued by a tug. The schooner was driven off again and beached near Douglas' monument, where the other five of her crew escaped ashore. They all had a thrilling experience.

OLD PAW THAMES.

Special to the Star.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—The Capitol, Treasury Department, and several other buildings were illuminated with electric lights last evening, while Pennsylvania avenue was ablaze with gas and densely thronged with people. Rockets and bombs were sent up from the steps front of the Treasury Department from various parts of the city. The grand tent, erected upon the grounds south of the White House, was the main point of attraction for members of the Army of the Cumberland, invited guests and citizens generally. At 8 o'clock, when the exercises began, about six thousand persons were packed within, while twice as many more thronged every approach. The tent was brilliantly illuminated with coronals of gas jets surrounding the seven central poles which supported the canvas, and presented an animated kaleidoscope of glittering uniforms and gorgeous toilettes.

The exercises were begun with prayer by Rev. H. C. McCauley, of All-Souls' Unitarian Church, this city. Judge Arthur McArthur, of this city, delivered the address of welcome on behalf of the city. After music by the West Point Band and Centurion Choir, General Amos G. Cook delivered an oration.

At the conclusion of General McCook's oration, Miss Annie Storv read with fine effect an original poem by Edward Renaud, entitled "The Rock of Chickamauga."

President Hayes was present with Mrs. Hayes, but he arrived after the exercises began. Gen. Jeff. C. Davis presided and called the meeting to order briefly, requesting perfect order, and then announcing the programme.

Great American Crawfish.

National Associated Press to the Star.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 20.—Mr. Saule has returned from Union Springs terribly angry. He says Courtney was hiding in a woods near Drumhurburg, and he could have no communication with him. The people of Union Springs are very indignant, and Courtney's mother, now seventy-three years of age, was particularly so, and said she would row Hanlan herself.

Saule goes to Troy to-day, and he gave the agent of the National Associated Press to understand that he would pay the Chattanooga fare of $6,000 over to Hanlan.

New York, Nov. 20.—Yesterday, according to the articles of agreement, was the last day in which Courtney could put up his $500 forfeit in the proposed race with Hanlan at Washington, and nothing is heard from Courtney. Hanlan's $500 and the $6,000 certificate for the stake money are in the referee's safe.

The trial of Harry Hulse for the rape on Hattie Huberg was resumed to-day. The witnesses who testified last evening after our going to press identified the prisoner as the man who was with the girls.

Mrs. Hannah Koster was cross-examined by Major Blackburn to-day. The upshot was that she saw Hulse with the girls pass west on Liberty street.

Henry Seider testified that he and his brother were hunting and that his brother heard the girls crying near the M. & C. track. But went down and helped the girls up the embankment, which was steep and icy. They took Hattie and the Johnsons girl home after warning them in a saloon at the corner of Baymiller and Clinton streets.

Lieutenant Albert Parks testified to Hulse giving his name and his age. He said he was twenty-five years old.

WORK FOR THE CORONER.

Found Dead—A Living Skeleton—Killed by a Falling Derrick.

As mentioned in yesterday's last edition, a woman named Sophia Reimer, about thirty years old, was found dead in her room on the second story in the rear of No. 935 Vine street, by the landlady of the house, Mrs. Graber.

The woman, whose husband died about a year ago, was a native of Bohemia and was supporting herself by selling newspapers and periodicals. The neighbors say that of late she had been under the influence of liquor nearly all the time.

An inquest was held this morning and the following verdict returned: Death from congestion of the lungs, brought on by intemperance and exposure accelerated by neglect and the want of medical advice.

Patsey Sattler, a colored woman, aged sixty-five years, and who for thirty years had been a cripple from rheumatism, died last evening about 4 o'clock. While a disabled woman in health, she was reduced to a mere skeleton, and at the time of her death would scarcely weigh more than fifty pounds. All of her joints were contracted, and a body seemed to be one perfect knot. The sight was a sickening one.

The coroner returned a verdict as follows: Death from marasmus, resulting from chronic rheumatism.

James Callahan, of the firm of Callahan & Brother, marble workers and stone cutters, at Spring Grove avenue, near the second toll-gate, was instantly killed in Spring Grove Cemetery about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon by the fall of a derrick. He had just completed the erection of a monument and was taking down the derrick when it fell. Callahan was thirty-six years old, born in Ireland, and lived at the corner of Colerain Pike and Blue Rock street, Cincinnati.

He leaves a wife and two small children. His chest was crushed in, his face and head badly crushed. The coroner took the testimony of the widow last night and then postponed the inquest until this evening.

United States Court Investigation.

There is a lull in the investigation of the records of the United States Court, but it is expected that experts will soon arrive from Washington and make the examination of the books complete. The Attorney General states that Newcomb was recalled because he was wanted elsewhere, but that he had discovered on eugh frauds to make a sure case against Ambrose, and the District Attorney had signified his intentions of prosecuting Ambrose to the full spirit and letter of the law.

Investigations will probably be made into the workings of the Marshal's office, but the principal complaint against that office is the matter of constructive mileage, which is the practice of Marshals generally.

Ex-Governor Young, who is now in Washington, had a long interview with the Attorney General yesterday upon the subject of the investigation and recommended a thorough examination into all the alleged frauds of the different offices of the Court and a just prosecution of the criminals.

This course the Attorney General had already adopted, and expressed his determination to carry it out.

The question referred to Judge Baxter by Commissioner Probasco, as to whether an attorney other than the Government officer and a right to prosecute the case of Brundage against Ambrose, will be argued Saturday morning.
